Civ. No. 1:17-md-02804-DAP

HON. JUDGE DAN A. POLSTER

AMERISOURCEBERGEN DRUG CORPORATION'S SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO COMPEL AND FOR SANCTIONS
PURSUANT TO THE COURT'S JUNE 17, 2020 ORDER

AmerisourceBergen Drug Corporation ("ABDC") respectfully files this Supplemental Response in Opposition to Plaintiffs' Motion to Compel and for Sanctions ("Plaintiffs' Motion") (ECF No. 3300), pursuant to the Court's June 17, 2020 Order (ECF No. 3343).

I. RELEVANT PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Plaintiffs filed their Motion on May 21, 2020, identifying 10 documents they believe should have been produced by ABDC during Track One discovery but (they claim) were not produced until later in the litigation. ABDC filed its Opposition on June 4, 2020, explaining why it had complied with the Court's discovery rulings and that Plaintiffs did not meet the legal standard for imposition of sanctions (ECF No. 3322). Plaintiffs filed a Reply on June 11, 2020, identifying 100 additional documents they believe ABDC should have produced during Track One discovery, but (they claim) were not produced until later in the litigation (ECF No. 3332). With the Court's permission, ABDC filed its Sur-Reply on June 17, 2020 (ECF No. 3342).

On June 17, 2020, the Court entered an Order, requiring ABDC to provide the following information for each of the 110 documents identified in Plaintiffs' Motion and Reply: "ABDC shall state: (i) the date the document was created; (ii) the date the document was produced in the MDL; (iii) the date(s) the document was disclosed in other proceeding(s) and identity of the proceeding(s); (iv) whether the document falls within Category One, and if not, why not; (v) why the document was not produced in Track One; (vi) whether the document is in the custodial file of a witness deposed in Track One; and (vii) whether the document included agreed search terms.” Order at 4 (ECF No. 3343).

II. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Mindful of the Court’s direction that this Supplemental Response should not include any additional argument, this Executive Summary does not include legal argument. Instead, this Executive Summary serves two important functions. First, it provides the necessary factual background for ABDC’s document-by-document submission that, if it were repeated for each document, would needlessly add to the volume of ABDC’s submission. For example, the history of the privilege rulings in the case and agreements among the parties related to those rulings is relevant, on several documents, to ABDC’s answer to this Court’s question as to why a document was not produced during Track One.

Second, since the information is extremely voluminous, it is not logically possible to provide the requested information in one combined chart that would be legible or usable. Given this, ABDC instead has provided the requested information on a document-by-document basis. ABDC accordingly submits this Executive Summary to highlight several key factual aspects of the requested information, in aggregate.

A. Search Terms and Time Period for Discovery

ABDC’s analysis of Plaintiffs’ selected list of 110 documents identified 7 documents that did not hit the agreed-upon Track One search terms, and thus were not reviewed or produced during Track One discovery for that reason.¹ A chart identifying the agreed-upon Track One search terms is attached hereto as Exhibit A.²

ABDC identified 2 additional documents created after the May 29, 2018 discovery cut-off as set forth in ABDC's Responses and Objections to Plaintiffs First Set of Requests for Production of Documents (attached hereto as Exhibit B).³ Plaintiffs did not challenge the May 29, 2018 date, and these 2 documents thus were not produced during Track One discovery.

B. Responsiveness to Plaintiffs' Discovery Requests

Plaintiffs served their First Set of Requests for Production of Documents to ABDC on April 26, 2018 (attached hereto as Exhibit C). ABDC served its Objections and Responses on May 29, 2018 and then supplemented them on November 12, 2018 (attached hereto as Exhibits B & D). Plaintiff also served their (First) Combined Discovery Requests to Distributor Defendants on July 1, 2018 (attached hereto as Exhibit E). ABDC filed Objections and Responses to the Combined Requests on July 31, 2018, and then supplemented them on November 30, 2018 and March 4, 2019 (attached hereto as Exhibits F, G, & H).

Once a request for the production of documents is made, the responding party then may provide responses, interpose objections, and produce documents responsive to the requests subject to the objections and limitations it articulated. Unless the requesting party challenges the objections and limitations, the scope of discovery is defined by the requesting party's requests and the producing party's objections, limitations, and responses. Here, rulings by the Special Master and the Court further defined the scope of discovery. Specifically, in response to disputes about the geographic scope of otherwise responsive material, the Court imposed some additional parameters upon discovery through Discovery Ruling Nos. 2 and 3—the Category One and Category Two definitions, as discussed in ABDC’s Opposition.

² ABDC has not included the search term for its "customer block," which includes the names and DEA numbers of all ABDC customers in the Track One jurisdictions, both due to confidentiality concerns and because those search terms are not implicated by Plaintiffs' Motion. ABDC can make the "customer block" search term available for in camera review at the Court's request.

ABDC’s analysis of Plaintiffs’ selected list of 110 documents identified 17 documents that were not responsive to Plaintiffs’ Requests for Production, and thus were not produced during Track One discovery.⁴

C. “Category Two” Documents

ABDC’s Opposition provides a comprehensive summary of Discovery Ruling Nos. 2 and 3, and the distinction between “Category One” documents to be produced on a national basis, and “Category Two” documents for which production was limited to the Track One jurisdictions of Summit and Cuyahoga Counties.

ABDC’s analysis of Plaintiffs’ list of 110 documents has identified 6 documents that are Category Two documents that were not produced during Track One discovery pursuant to Discovery Ruling Nos. 2 and 3 because they are unrelated to either Summit or Cuyahoga.⁵

D. Documents Withheld as Privileged

Throughout this litigation, ABDC has reviewed documents for attorney-client privilege, work product privilege, and any other applicable privilege, and then withheld and/or redacted such documents and included them on privilege logs, which were produced to Plaintiffs. The Court and Special Master made several rulings related to privilege, both generally and as related to ABDC specifically, during the course of the litigation. The evolving landscape flowing from the privilege rulings resulted in the subsequent production of certain documents initially withheld as privileged during Track One. This includes the following specific circumstances:

⁴ Plaintiffs’ Reply Document Nos. 3, 5, 9, 22, 40, 45, 47, 58, 59, 62, 74, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 90.

⁵ Plaintiffs’ Motion Document Nos. 1, 3; Plaintiffs’ Reply Document Nos. 32, 33, 34, 84.

First, following the settlement of the Track One case against ABDC, Plaintiffs requested that ABDC (and other defendants) review the documents previously withheld and logged as privileged in Track One, taking into account general principals regarding privilege designations reflected in the Special Master’s rulings from Track One. ABDC agreed to conduct such an analysis and, as a result, it unilaterally removed or reduced its privilege claim for numerous documents. These documents then were produced either in their entirety or with redactions.

This process was summarized in email correspondence to Plaintiffs’ counsel dated April 30, 2020, in which ABDC’s counsel explained that, “[a]s promised, we have re-examined ABDC’s privilege log from MDL Track 1 in consideration of, inter alia, rulings issued by the Court and the Special Master regarding privilege issues.” See Apr. 30, 2020 Email from B. Himmel to A. Irpino and P. Robertson (attached hereto as Exhibit I). Counsel for ABDC attached a spreadsheet summarizing the results of ABDC’s efforts, whereby ABDC agreed to produce complete or partially redacted versions of documents that it had previously withheld and logged as privileged. Id.

Also following settlement, Plaintiffs asserted challenges with respect to specific documents that ABDC had withheld or redacted and logged during Track One. In response to such challenges, ABDC removed or reduced its privilege claim for certain of the challenged documents. These documents too were then then produced either in their entirety or with redactions.

Second, in addition to withholding documents on the basis of attorney-client privilege, ABDC (like other defendants) initially held certain documents related to the distributor trade association (HDA, formerly known as HDMA) on the basis of the common-interest privilege. After receiving further guidance from the Special Master on the scope of the common-interest privilege, ABDC de-designated and produced certain documents it had initially withheld or redacted and logged as privileged.

Third, and related to both prior points, as document production ramped up in state court litigation around the country, and ABDC undertook the global review discussed in its Opposition (see Opposition at 8-9), ABDC’s privilege analysis was informed by the general principals regarding privilege reflected in the Court’s and Special Master’s rulings during Track One. As a result of application of those principals, certain documents that originally were designated as privileged during Track One were not given a privilege designation during ABDC’s global state court production.

Each of these foregoing circumstances reflect the good-faith evolution of ABDC’s privilege analysis as a result of application of the principles articulated by the Special Master during Track One.

ABDC’s analysis of Plaintiffs’ list of 110 documents has identified 27 documents (including duplicates and near duplicates, as explained in ABDC’s document-by-document analysis) that were initially withheld as privileged and then de-designated as privileged and produced at a later time for the reasons discussed above.⁶

E. Exact Duplicate, Near Duplicate, and Substantially Similar Documents

ABDC’s analysis of Plaintiffs’ list of 110 documents has identified 23 documents for which an exact duplicate document, a near duplicate document, or a substantially similar document was produced during Track One discovery.⁷

⁷ Plaintiffs’ Reply Document Nos. 4, 21, 24, 27, 28, 29, 31, 36, 41, 42, 43, 52, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 73, 75, 82, 83, 85, 100.

Exact duplicates—which refer to identical copies of a document—may exist for a number of reasons: because multiple versions of a document exist, or the same document was collected from more than one custodian, or a document was collected more than one time. A near duplicate document most typically refers to a slightly different or more comprehensive version of the same email chain.

The production of an exact duplicate shows that the specific document was, in fact, produced during Track One. The production of duplicate, near duplicate, or substantially similar documents is also relevant to the two primary considerations in assessing a sanctions motion—whether ABDC acted willfully or in bad faith, and whether Plaintiffs have been prejudiced. For example, ABDC has identified instances where the Plaintiffs used a duplicate or near duplicate as an exhibit during a deposition of an ABDC witness, and identified an exact duplicate that was included on ABDC’s Track One Trial Exhibit List.

F. Documents Erroneously Not Produced

As shown above and in the following charts, only a minority of the documents on Plaintiffs’ handpicked list—just 28 documents—with the benefit of hindsight, were erroneously not produced during Track One.⁸ For some of these documents, ABDC has included additional context in its document-by-document analysis. For example, for certain documents context suggests the reviewer may have mistakenly coded the document as a Category Two document, and so forth.

Finally, Plaintiffs have not claimed that the documents they identify in their motion are representative of the hundreds of thousands of documents ABDC has produced in the course of this litigation. Instead, they handpicked the documents presented to the Court. The results of ABDC’s review of Plaintiffs’ self-selected documents do not support Plaintiffs request for sanctions.

Whether the document falls within Category One, and if not, why not	Not applicable as the document is not responsive to Track One discovery.
Why the document was not produced in Track One	This document was not produced in Track One because it is not responsive to any of the Track One Requests for Production. This document relates to the implementation of policies and procedures at other, unrelated AmerisourceBergen Corporation business units, not ABDC. Though it lists then-current ABDC policies by name and policy number, this list is in reference to implementing those ABDC procedures at other ABC business units. ABDC produced each of the referenced ABDC-related policies in Track One on July 20, 2018 and July 27, 2018 at ABDCMDL00141734, ABDCMDL00141736, ABDCMDL00141742, ABDCMDL00249149, ABDCMDL00249151, ABDCMDL00249154, ABDCMDL00172096, ABDCMDL00172100, ABDCMDL00172112, ABDCMDL00172115, ABDCMDL00172118, ABDCMDL00172120, ABDCMDL00172125, ABDCMDL00172129, and ABDCMDL00172132.

Whether the document falls within Category One, and if not, why not	No. This document from 2012 relates to a specific customer (Walgreens) and specific locations (Boston, Chicago, Kansas City, Phoenix, Orlando, and Puerto Rico). ABDC did not service any Walgreens locations in Summit or Cuyahoga Counties in 2012. This document is outside the scope of Category One and relates to a geographic scope other than the Track One jurisdictions of Summit and Cuyahoga Counties.
Why the document was not produced in Track One	This document was not produced in Track One because it was non-responsive to Plaintiffs' Discovery Requests and is otherwise a Category Two document outside the scope of Track One discovery.
Whether the document is in the custodial file of a witness deposed in Track One	Yes
Whether the document included agreed search terms	Yes

Whether the document falls within Category One, and if not, why not	Yes
Why the document was not produced in Track One	This group of documents consist of (a) an e-mail from Sharon Hartman with an attached spreadsheet (B-68 and B-69), and (b) a calendar invite from Sharon Hartman, attaching both her original e-mail and a separate copy of the same spreadsheet (B-66 and B-67). Duplicates of this same collection of documents were produced in Track One at ABDCMDL00366306-ABDCMDL00366311 on December 21, 2018. The Sharon Hartman e-mail (ABDCMDL00366307) and spreadsheets (ABDCMDL00366310 and ABDCMDL00366311) are exact duplicates to documents B-67, B-68 and B-69. The document produced at ABDCMDL00366306 is a near duplicate of B-66. The original calendar invite from Ms. Hartman was produced at ABDCMDL00366306. Document B-66 appears to be a system-generated version of the invite – generated 6 seconds after the original – on which Ms. Hartman was replaced as the sender by “UNKNOWN,” and was instead included as a recipient.

Whether the document falls within Category One, and if not, why not	Yes. A portion of the e-mail chain is within the scope of Category One, but the majority of the e-mail chain relates to issues with a specific Florida customer and therefore would not fall within the scope of Category One.
Why the document was not produced in Track One	This document was erroneously not produced in Track One. By way of further response, this error was likely the result of the subject line relating to a Florida-specific issue, and the fact that almost all of the e-mails in the chain relate to an issue arising in Florida related to a specific Florida customer, and not to any matters related to the Track One geographic region.
